

Take Action!

Arts and Design

As a creative, you strive to engage us fully as human beings. You enchant us with beauty. You guide our attention. You help us express our emotions, struggles and stories. You reimagine our world and what sustainable living is and can be. You redesign and move us away from harmful consumer cultures. You help us find vibrant, creative ways forward.

Resources for you:

Resources from OneEarth Living, with partners:

- Beacon for Sustainable Living: Imagining Futures – a program engaging creatives to imagine compelling visions of sustainable living, with examples and resources to inspire.
- Fostering and Communicating Sustainable Lifestyles – a guide to build engagement campaigns that advance sustainable ways of living - with 16 cases from around the world.

Other resources:

- Transforming Cultures: From Consumerism to Sustainability – book and videos: “Re-engineering cultures to create a sustainable civilization intro video (4 min) and book overview (part 1– 9 min; part 2 – 10 min).
- Indigenous cultures as central to sustainability – including in the UN Sustainable Development Goals and environmental stewardship.
- Dive Into Intangible Cultural Heritage! – a database of cultural practices and expressions from around the world that can lead the way to sustainability.
- Responsible for inspirational projects such as the algae dome and open source CNC bee hives, Space10 is IKEA’s research and design lab.
- Looking at the built environment in new ways, check out some of the work coming out of Ryerson’s Ecological Design Lab.

Let us know what you find useful. Share with others and send us your suggestions at OneEarthLiving.Org/contact-us

Follow this link to learn more:

